Lattimore's Heroes Loaded With Bouquets Since Their Return

-By CLUG-

After the Savages had played their first two games in Denver the Denver Post carried a black type 8-column line at the head of its sporting page that read as follows:

THE TOPEKA BALL CLUB IS WEAK-YES, JUST LIKE SAMSON.

The compliment, coming from a paper in the home town of a rival club was so unusual that several of the members of Manager Lattimore's team bought papers to clip it out and show to their

Although the admission of its greatness by a Denver paper is unusual, the fact remains that Lattimore and Savage have one of the strongest teams that ever was assembled in the Western league, and proof of this was furnished local fans Thursday afternoon when the players stepped out and took Rebel Oakes and his Grizzlies to a 5 to 4 cleaning with little effort.

As a defensive organization, the whole team is as good as they make them without the big league stamp. Its ability in this respect has never been questioned. But, within the last week it has developed into an equally strong offensive aggregation, and if the pill hitting performances of the past few days are kept up, then it ought to be easy picking for Topeka from now until the end of the season.

TOPEKA-DENVER SCORE

Three examples of the offensive tactics that make the Savages certain pennant contenders were furnished Thursday afternoon. Joe Agler, the Buckeye first baseman: Al Schweitzer, the Cincinnati outfielder, and George Cochran, of Carthage, Missouri, composed the trio that furnished the examples friends back home.

AGLER'S A LEADER.

In his first official time at bat, Agler dropped a safe one in short field. It was a good single without a doubt, and the average player would have been content to let it go at that. But Agler demonstrated that he is more than an average player by stretching it into a two-bagger. On his way to first he summed up the stiuation at a glance. He figured that reaching second was within the range of possibilities, and he took the initial curve on high, racing on to second without a moment's hesitation. It was a big chance, but he beat the ball to the bag by a matter of inches and by doing so placed himself in a position to acore on Cochran's single a few minutes later. Without taking this chance he never would have scored, and without his score Topeka would not have won without taking the count in the last of the ninth.

Schweitzer's asgression also was displayed at the keystone sack. After getting a walk in the second inning, he started to steal at an inopportune time. A perfect peg was made to get him, and the ball was there in time, but Schweitzer made a swinging slide that carried him beyond both the second baseman and the base and he made his detour so wide that he was able to negotiate a safe return before Reed could put it on him.

Cochran has always been accredited with being a good base runner, and although they did not figure in the scering, he stole two advances out of three times on the paths. Also, he kissed a triple into centerfield in the big seventh, scoring one run and placing himself in a position to score another on Goodwin's sacrifice fly a short time after.

GOOD PITCHING THURSDAY.

The pitching in Thursday's game was the best that has been witnessed on the local diamond this season. King, the Bear twirler, used an effective shotgan delivery throughout, and was greatly aided by the overhanging clouds that made it all the more difficult to see his speed offerings. West pifcined a beautiful game, using his head as well as his arm. Only any as fast limited in the selection and these he followed with a pair of atrikeouts.

Wichita Needs Pitchers.

The members of the team have been pretty well supplied with bouquets since their arrival home, and if they succeed in giving Wichita another trimming like the one they gave Jackson's men in his own town, there is no doubt but that they can even have the pots the flowers grew in if they want them. And there is not a member of the team who does not believe it will be an easy trick to trim the Wolves. "Where do you get that Wichita stuff?" a Savage remarked this morning. "Why they have about as much chance of whining the pennant as Germany has of capturing London. I'll bet a new hat they won't finish 1-2-3, and unless they get some pitchers they will have to peddle some to keep out of the cellar.

Pete Compton is performing so gracefully in center field for the Boston Braves that George Stallings has expressed the warmest admiration for him. He has shown himself to be fast in the field and a reliable though not a brilliant hitter. Though the season is early, he seems to have won a regular berth against warm commetition.

Plans For State Golf

Emporia, Kan., May 12.—The ninth annual tournament of the Kansas State Golf association will be held at the Emporia Country club's ago of course from June 12 to 16.

Bob Peebles, the well known Scotch professional, formerly with the Topeka club, will conduct the tournament. Peebles is open champion of Kansas.

A feature of the tournament different from the amateur competitions of former years, will be that the qualifying round will be played on two days. Medal play will be the order of the day on Monday, June 12, and Tuesday, June 13. The first round of match play will start Wednesday, June 14.

The Emporia Country club an nounces that meals will be served at the club and down town hotels will be maintained. Reservations can be made at the Whitley, Mit Way and Fred Harvey hotels.

Stone, New Topeka Shooter, Makes Great Showing.

He Led the Field Up to the Last Event of the Day.

Although Topeka shooters failed to cop high honors in the third annual trap tournament that closed Thursday afternoon, one Topekan at least set a record that will long be remembered in the local annals of trap shooting. His name is A. L. Stone. He is the head of the Stone Produce company, and he gives promise of becoming a phenomenal blue rock buster.

Despite the fact that Mr. Stone never shot over a trap until this spring when he became a member of the Topeka club, and despite the fact that it was his first tournament, he led the fifty amateur and professional shooters in Thursday's events up until the last round and finished third in the amateur class with a total of 133 dead birds out of a possible 150.

Mr. Stone will enter the state shoot at Emporia next week and all who saw him use his trigger finger Thursday predict that he will be in the running all the way.

Insure State Tourney.

The Topeka tournament was pronounced by all who attended one of the best ever held in the state, and it is believed that its great success will insure the state tournament to this city in 1917.

The traps were kept going Thursday in 1917.

The traps were kept going Thursday from 9:30 in the morning until late in the afternoon, and, although it was far from an ideal day, some high scores were made. D. D. Gross, a Kansas City professional, made the high average of the day, getting a total of 139 out of a possible 150. Ed O'Brien, of Lawrence, was second high professional with 138; H. Hennicott, of St. Louis, was third with 131 and Dan Bovee, of Kansas City, was fourth with 130.

Ed Solden, of Marquet, Kan., was the high amateur of the day with 137;

Ed Soiden, of Marquet, Kan., was the high amateur of the day with 127; B. E. Metzger, of Ozawkie, was second with 136, and A. L. Stone, of Topeka. third with 133.

By "branching out" and enlarging our business we have been able to carry out many "dreams of the past," that we had in our old location.

The "dream" of a real, live, up-to-the-minute Sporting Goods Department has become a reality!

New and better methods of display; new stock and dozens of brand new lines and items dear to the heart of the expert "sportsman." "You have no sale, around Topeka, for a McGloughlin tennis racket"

"You have no sale, around Topeka, for a McGloughlin tennis racket" or "a $15 or $20 Shakespeare fishing reel" or "a McGregor ivory-faced golf club" and "where on earth do you have any calls for bass and trout balts and flies, around this burg"—those are samples of dozens of remarks our customers make to us every day! But our answer is, "Oh! Yes! We have! Because we understand those things and have been passing on this service and knowledge to our customers for the past ten years!"

But we are not all "experts" and so we carry in stock supplies from the least expensive and up the scale to suit any and all pocketbooks, and we ALWAYS have just the RIGHT thing and just the RIGHT stage in the same!
